Liang Proposes Pair Health-Related Ordinances

• Prohibit Trash Bags Curbside If Not In Appropriate Receptacle • Fines For Violating State Sanitary Code

By SCOTT JACKSON

Council President Nina Liang has proposed a pair of ordinances – one that would grant the city's health commissioner the ability to assess fines for violating the state's sanitary code and another that would prohibit people from placing trash bags curbside if they are not in an appropriate receptacle.

Liang introduced her ordinances during the council's meeting on May 18. Both items were referred to the ordinance committee for consideration at a later date.

The first ordinance adopts six sections of the state's sanitary code – sections concerning standards of fitness for human habitations, recreational camps for children, swimming pools, bathing beaches, disposal of infectious or physically dangerous medical or biological waste, and food establishments – and would grant the health commissioner the ability to assess fines for violations.

The fines Liang proposed would range from $25 for a first-time offense to $300 for a fifth or subsequent offense.

Liang said she wanted to give the city health commissioner, Ruth Jones, more tools to respond to sanitary code violations. Liang said

Koch Hopeful For Outdoor Ceremony At Stadium

The graduation ceremonies for Quincy's two high schools could be held at Veterans Memorial Stadium as soon as late June, Mayor Thomas Koch said.

The ceremonies were originally scheduled for June 8 and June 9, but they have postponed amid the coronavirus pandemic.

The School Committee has met weekly this month to discuss how to honor the 660 seniors from the two schools.

At the committee's meeting on May 20, Koch said he was working with the Department of Natural Resources to plan ceremonies that would take place at

Cycling For Fun And Fitness

Practical Fitness With Wayne L. Westcott

By WAYNE WESTCOTT

Like most of you, I exercise regularly all year round. My mainstay physical activities are strength training, running, and walking, fall, winter, spring and summer.

However, this time of year I add a most enjoyable outdoor exercise that complements my other fitness pursuits, namely, cycling. Cycling is an excellent warm-weather activity because the relatively fast movement speed ensures an air-cooling effect. This is particularly important and much appreciated on hot and humid summer days. Of course, the faster movement speed enables you to cover many more miles and enjoy much more scenery than is possible during an equal time period of running or walking.

Another enjoyable aspect of cycling is the coasting ability available on downhill segments. This capacity of cycling not only provides occasional rests for the leg muscles, it also avoids the shock absorption and eccentric muscle actions that accentuate muscle stress and resultant muscle soreness associated with downhill running and walking.

Perhaps the most fascinating feature of cycling is the mechanical advantage possible through appropriate selections within the gear-shift system. The correct use of lower gears for upgrades and higher gears for level roadways makes cycling a meaningful mental activity as well as a productive physical activity. The new cycle computers that constantly display your speed, distance, time, pedal cadence, and heart rate make each ride even more interesting and provides important information for performance enhancement.

Safe and sensible cycling does require compliance with some specific guidelines. These include: (1) always wearing a properly fitted bicycle helmet; (2) using appropriate footwear such as pedal-securing bicycle shoes; (3) wearing appropriate clothes such as bicycle shorts and bicycle gloves; (4) carrying a water bottle on the bicycle frame; (5) storing a few first aid supplies, a new tube, and tube changing tools in the seatbag; (6) cycling only during daylight hours; (7) riding on the right side shoulder of streets and roadways with traffic; (8) obeying all traffic signs and signals; (9) avoiding busy intersections and on-street parking areas whenever possible; and (10) always riding within your individual ability level.

Regarding the last recommendation, it is typically advantageous to ride with other cyclists. Small group rides provide an extra margin of safety by making cyclists more visible to motorists and providing assistance in the event of a breakdown or accident. The social aspect is also a reinforcing aspect of group rides, but be sure to cycle with people of similar abilities to avoid stressful situations and pushing harder than you should.

Getting Started

It is advantageous to purchase a well-designed and properly-fitted bicycle from an experienced cycle dealer. There are actually a number of biomechanical factors that need to be accommodated for effective and comfortable cycling. In addition to selecting the correct frame size, the distance from the seat to the pedals and the distance from the seat to the handlebars must be appropriate for your personal body dimensions. Although a good cycle may cost a few hundred dollars, when averaged over a 10-year period it is a very reasonable investment, similar to buying a new pair of running shoes every year.

Once you have your road bike, you should establish a progressive training program to enhance both your physical fitness and your cycling performance. I suggest starting with a relatively level out-and-back course between 6 and 8 miles in length. When this ride feels short and easy, progress to 10 to 12 mile cycles with a few small hills. If you feel comfortable with this distance, that is fine. As you gain cycling fitness, increase your speed accordingly and push the hills a little harder. If you choose to ride longer distances, increase gradually to 14 to 16 mile rides, and so on until you can manage a good 20-mile cycle. If you are in good cycling condition your average speed may be around 14 miles per hour. If you are in very good cycling condition, your average speed may be around 16 miles per hour, and if you are in excellent cycling condition your average speed may be around 18 miles per hour. I typically do two cycling sessions each week with varying distances depending on my training protocol. I do standard, steady pace rides of around 16 miles, and I do interval hill rides of about 12 miles. The steady pace rides are more enjoyable, and the interval hill cycles are more challenging. Both training protocols provide excellent cardiovascular fitness benefits, and the hill climbs definitely provide some leg muscle conditioning.

Actually, cycling requires more muscular involvement than most people realize. Every pedal action works the calf muscles, the front thigh (quadriceps) muscles, and the rear thigh (hamstrings) muscles. Maintaining your head and torso in the cycling position requires continuous static contractions of the neck extensor (upper trapezius) muscles, the low back (lumbar spine) muscles, the chest (pectoral) muscles, the shoulder (del-toid) muscles, and the rear arm (triceps) muscles. This renders cycling a more comprehensive muscular conditioning activity than running and walking. Also, unlike running, cycling does not require muscular absorption of repetitive landing forces, thereby reducing the risk of certain overuse injuries. Nonetheless, doing too much of any physical activity can be problematic so it is important to approach cycling in a safe and sensible manner, with gradual progressions to longer distances and faster speeds.

Wayne L. Westcott, Ph.D., is chairperson of the Quincy College Exercise Science Department and also directs the Community Fitness Facility at the college. He has written 30 books on physical fitness and strength training.

she reached out to Jones to discuss the idea after Walmart voluntarily closed its Falls Boulevard store for a week after the Health Department expressed concern about the number of COVID-19 cases among employees.

"I had talked to her after everything that happened, most recently with the Walmart incident, and wanted to see what we can do on our end to make sure that we are providing her with as many tools as possible to address what's been going on," Liang said.

"In addition to that, with the openings that are starting to come, I wanted to make sure she has the tools in her department that she needs to make sure that we are addressing any issues that any of our large or small stores are having when it comes to protecting not only the employees but all the public that are going in there."

The second ordinance Liang introduced would prohibit people from placing trash bags curbside for pickup without first putting them inside an appropriate receptacle, citing the "significant presence of rodents in the city." Violators of the new rule would be subject to a $50 fine.

In addition, the ordinance would require the owner of a dumpster to have in place a rodent control plan - including sufficient bait boxes near the dumpster.

The 34 newest members of the Quincy Fire Department have completed their training and begun serving in firehouses throughout the city.

The 34 firefighters were among a group of 35 sworn-in on Feb. 21 and they began training at a city-run academy three days later. The other firefighter who joined the department at that time, Ryan Dunne, had previously served with the Hingham

Fire Department.

"The class is a great group of guys," said Capt. Joseph Barron Jr., who oversaw the academy. "The city did a good job of vetting them."

The 34 recruits completed their training on May 8.

Each member of the class, along with their instructors, were then tested for COVID-19 as a precautionary measure, Barron said. The new firefighters started their new assignments on May 16. They will be spread

The public will be able to comment on the proposed budget via Zoom during the public hearing. Any person wishing to comment can also do so via email to jmanning@quincyma.gov or by regular first-class mail addressed to the City Council Office, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169 Attn: Jennifer Manning. Written comment must be received prior to noon on Thursday to be entered into the record.

Koch introduced his proposed $340.25 million budget for fiscal year 2021, which begins July 1, last week. The budget represents an increase of $10.47 million over the $329.78 million budget for the current fiscal year.

The mayor referred to his budget as a "protection plan," because it avoids cuts to personnel and key services amid the coronavirus pandemic. Koch has also said he hopes to avoid a property tax increase next year.

The council's finance committee will begin its review of departmental budgets Thursday following the public hearing.

The committee will review more than 40 budgets on Thursday, including those for the Municipal Finance, Human Resources, Purchasing, Health, IT, Emergency Management, Veterans Services, Public Buildings and Planning Departments; the Traffic, Parking, Alarm and Lighting budget; various budgets under the umbrella of the Department of Natural Resources; and the assorted budgets under the purview of the City Clerk's Office.

The committee will also review spending on health insurance, pensions, and long- and short-term debt Thursday, among others.

The committee will meet again at 9 a.m. Friday to continue the departmental hearings. On the agenda for that meeting are the budgets for the Quincy Public Schools, the Quincy Police and Fire Departments, and the Department of Public Works.

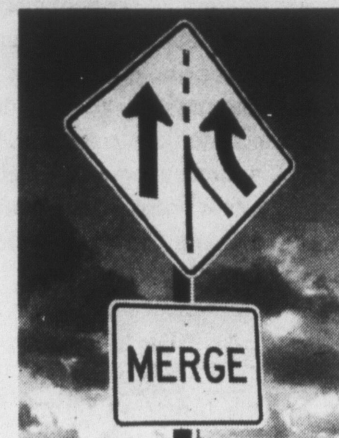

Friday's meeting will also be held via Zoom and will air on QATV Channel

BBB Alert: Want A COVID-19 Test? There's A Scam For That

By BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Some new studies show that up to 50% of people with COVID-19 don't show any symptoms, so many people are wondering if they had the disease without knowing it. Fortunately, an antibody test can identify if your body has already fought off the virus. Unfortunately, scammers are cashing in on demand and creating phony tests, according to BBB Scam

Tracker reports.

How the Scam Works

You receive a robocall or are directed to a website that looks like a clinic or medical supply company offering COVID-19 tests. These tests can allegedly identify if you've been infected with coronavirus – even if you've already recovered. Some even promise results in 10 minutes. To get a test, all you need to do is complete a form or, in other versions, enter your credit card details.

In some cases, the test involves an easy at-home testing kit. Other times, the tests are allegedly offered through a clinic. But in all versions, the person or website selling the test is short on details. They aren't willing or able to provide any information about how the test works, where it is sourced, and what laboratory processes it.

Don't fall for it! These tests are not US Food and Drug Administration approved and will not give accurate results. In fact, you may never even receive an actual test kit. Either way, scammers will have made off with your money and your personal information.

How to Avoid Fake Coronavirus Tests

• Want a test? Talk to your doctor. If you want an antibody test, reach out to your healthcare provider. They can help you figure out if the test will be covered by insurance and where to find a legitimate clinic. If you don't have a primary care physician, check out the official website of your local health department for more information on testing availability.

• Do research before buying. Scammers put pressure on people to buy or commit without giving them time to do further research. Before you agree to anything, do some investigat-

Veterans Memorial Stadium. There is no date yet for when they will be held, but the mayor said it could happen in late June or early July.

"I think we can pull this off at the end of June. I think the longer it goes into the summer, the more difficult it's going to be to pull it off – for a lot of different reasons," Koch said. "Things are going in the right direction. It's an outdoor event. If we do it properly, I think we can probably pull it off before July 4/the end of June."

"That's my hope."

During the meeting, Koch said each student would likely receive two tickets to their graduation. The tickets would correspond to assigned seats, with each family spread out to ensure social distancing would be maintained. The students would be spread out on the field and each attendee would have to wear a mask or face covering.

"I think with the right approach on this, with strict ticketing, strict adherence to all the guidelines – which will need some assistance from school personnel and perhaps police personnel to pull it off – I think it can be done," Koch said.

The mayor said Quincy High's graduation would be more difficult to plan for, because its graduating class includes 380 seniors compared to North Quincy High's class of 280. Koch said temporary bleachers could be used for Quincy High's graduation if needed.

The mayor said he could present plans showing how the stadium would be laid out for the graduations to his colleagues on the committee this week.

There are several other events the schools will be holding in the coming weeks to honor members of the graduating classes.

Supt. Richard DeCristofaro said the seniors would be signing out of their schools Thursday and Friday. Students will be allowed to re-enter the schools at assigned times to pick up personal items left in the buildings, plus their cap and gown for graduation. They will also drop off their textbooks at that time.

Parents from North Quincy High School have organized a "Senior Stay-In" event which will be held online Friday evening, DeCristofaro said. The event is a replacement for the "Senior Stay-Out" night typically held after prom.

Quincy High School parents, meanwhile, are organizing an "Adopt a Senior" program to provide graduates with a survival bag of assorted items for the summer.

Quincy High School will hold its senior award ceremony on June 2 and its scholarship ceremony on June 4, DeCristofaro said. North Quincy High will combine those two events into one ceremony on June 5. They will air online and on the educational access channel, Channel 22.

Senior tribute videos will air online at 6 p.m. on June 8 for Quincy High School and June 9 for North Quincy High School.

"I think that's going to be a really special video for parents and our students to watch," DeCristofaro said.

The seniors will officially graduate on June 10. DeCristofaro will announce the seniors have met the qualifications to graduate during a committee meeting that evening.

Virtual Commencement Ceremony To Celebrate Massachusetts High School Class of 2020

Governor, WGBH Special Broadcast June 9

In partnership with WGBH, Governor Charlie Baker will deliver a commencement address to the Class of 2020 as part of a celebration for graduating seniors from 668 public and private schools across the Commonwealth, to be aired in a special broadcast at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 9.

Massachusetts Commencement 2020 will feature congratulatory remarks from Jason and Devin McCourty of the New England Patriots, members of the Red Sox and the Boston Celtics, and a number of celebrities with Massachusetts ties, including singer Rachel Platten, actor Steve Carell and more.

In a special premiere performance, members of the legendary Boston Pops Orchestra, with Keith Lockhart conducting, will provide the traditional graduation march 'Pomp and Circumstance' for the ceremony. Students from around the Commonwealth will give valedictorian-type speeches to their classmates.

WGBH will broadcast the program, Massachusetts Commencement 2020, across the Commonwealth, on WGBH 2 in Greater Boston, and on its partner station WGBY/New England Public Media in western Massachusetts. Both stations will stream the program on their website and social media platforms. WGBH also will make the program available to other television stations in Massachusetts, including community access channels.

"Graduation ceremonies are important milestones in a young person's life that deserve to be celebrated," Baker said. "While we cannot gather in the traditional way, we want to recognize, celebrate and salute Massachusetts' Class of 2020 for their accomplishments and their resiliency during these difficult times. We are very thankful to WGBH for working with us to help do that."

"Although graduation looks different this year for students throughout Massachusetts, this momentous occasion should still be celebrated however possible, and we are glad to offer a special ceremony for the Class of 2020," said Lt.

Governor Karyn Polito.

"It's an honor for WGBH to create this special television event with Governor Baker to recognize the Massachusetts Class of 2020," said WGBH President and CEO Jon Abbott. "While this can't replace a ceremony with their classmates, it will allow everyone across the Commonwealth to join in a celebration of all our Massachusetts graduates."

"Commencement is such a meaningful event in a high school student's life, and we all feel the loss of the traditional way to celebrate this year. This program gives us, as a Commonwealth, the opportunity to mark the achievements of the Class of 2020 and celebrate students as they move on to their next phase in life," said Education Secretary James Peyser.

"Many of us have been thinking about this year's graduating seniors and how many important events they will miss," said Elementary and Secondary Education Commissioner Jeffrey C. Riley. "The class of 2020 has a unique history, they hold a special place in our hearts, and this event will give us all a chance to congratulate them."

Student remarks for the program were prepared in collaboration with 826 Boston, a nonprofit youth writing and publishing organization.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1931 real photo postcard showing the first Eastern Nazarene College Gymnasium on Wendell Avenue in Wollaston. Built in 1927 it was known as the "Gymnasium" because it served as both a gymnasium and an auditorium. In the 1940s it was renovated so it could also support chapel and church services from Sunday to Wednesday. It was converted back to a gym on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. When the present Eastern Nazarene Church was built in 1950 on East Elm Avenue, this again became a full-time gymnasium until it was demolished in 1973. The present Lahue Physical Education Center was built next to this site that is now a parking lot.

Expect $308,000 In Hurricane Relief Aid

The city expects to receive $308,053 during the first half of June as part of the federal and state reimbursement for damage caused by Hurricane Gloria last fall. But it will be very likely beyond the Sept. 27 anniversary of the storm before all of the money is reimbursed.

Future plans for the site were discussed at a meeting attended by Foley, some Quincy Square merchants, Planning Director James Lydon and Principal Planner Kevin Shea.

State Working To Increase Virus Testing

By SCOTT JACKSON

Gov. Charlie Baker said Massachusetts could become the worldwide leader in COVID-19 testing by more than doubling its capacity to test for the virus by the end of the year.

The governor also urged residents to "respect the virus" and keep taking steps to halt the spread of the disease.

Baker and Lawrence Mayor Dan Rivera appeared together at a press conference May 22 to announce the launch of a drive-through testing facility in the Merrimack Valley community with the ability to test up to 1,000 residents each day. The city of Lawrence provided $1 million in funding to open the test center.

There are now more than 250 COVID-19 test sites located throughout Massachusetts, Baker said, with the capacity to perform some 30,000 tests each day. He said the state has prepared a plan to increase that number to 45,000 by the end of July and 75,000 by the end of the year.

If implemented, Baker said that would make Massachusetts the worldwide leader in per capita testing.

The growth in testing capacity means anyone who is symptomatic or has been in close contact with someone who has tested positive is now eligible to be tested, he added.

The governor said, however, that testing capacity alone won't be enough to stop COVID-19. The state's residents, he said, need to continue their efforts to slow its spread - including social distancing, frequent handwashing, wearing a mask or face covering when needed, and cleaning surfaces.

"While testing is a valuable tool in the fight against COVID, it is not...the only one. People have a big role to play in this with respect to the behavior that you exhibit and the behavior you deliver every single day - social distancing, hygiene, covering your nose and your mouth and wiping surfaces frequently," Baker said.

"If you keep doing your part, we'll keep doing ours and we will get through this together."

Rivera compared following the steps that Baker outlined to following the recipe for baking a cake.

"You have to do the testing and the masks and the hygiene and the distancing and staying home if you're sick - that makes a nice cake," Rivera said. "Otherwise, you have a coronavirus cake. No one wants to eat that."

With warm weather approaching, Baker said it is important for residents to keep social distancing and cover their faces if necessary.

"Respect the virus and understand that distancing and face coverings if you can't stay distant are your two greatest allies in preventing the spread," the governor said, adding that between 20 and 40 percent of people who are infected with the virus that causes COVID-19 never show symptoms of the disease.

"If you feel healthy and you feel good...if you can't distance yourself, you should wear a face covering, because you may in fact be a carrier."

Baker said the steps taken by residents to date has allowed the state to begin a phased re-opening of businesses, but it is too soon to let up.

"People have worked really hard and given up a tremendous amount over the course of the past eight or ten weeks to bend the trend on this and we succeeded. It's because of the work that everyone did that we are now in a position...we can start talking about a gradual, careful, data-driven phased re-opening," the governor said.

"Don't let a few nice days step on that. We need to continue to make the kind of progress that we have all made in battling this thing for the past two or three months."

Rivera - who announced all public events in Lawrence would be cancelled through December - said anyone who doubts the seriousness of the pandemic should look at the obituary pages in newspapers.

"People are dying," he said. "We sent tons of kids to fight in Vietnam. Nineteen Lawrence boys lost their lives in Vietnam. In this short period, we've lost 109 souls."

"The governor is right, we have to respect this virus."

Pumpkin Chocolate Chip Bars

By MARIE

Today's recipe is for a chewy and delicious bar and is a perfect dessert for anytime and anywhere. I first made these bars with my friends from Baking Club and we all agreed - they are delicious!

Pre-heat oven to 325 degrees; grease a 9 x 13 pan

Ingredients

2 cups flour
1 table pumpkin pie spice
1 tsp baking soda
½ teaspoon of salt
1 cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar

1 egg
2 tsp vanilla
1 cup canned pumpkin puree
1 and ½ cups chocolate chips

In a bowl, add flour, pumpkin pie spice, baking soda and salt until well blended.

In a separate bowl, combine butter and sugar and mix until light and fluffy.

Add egg and vanilla to mixture and mix well.

Add dry ingredients, mix and then fold in chocolate chips.

Spread batter evenly into the pan.

Bake for 30 minutes until edges pull away and toothpick comes out clean in the center.

Cool completely before cutting. Enjoy!

Healthy Rice Pudding

By SUSIE

Rice pudding is one of my favorite desserts.

Normally loaded with cows milk, white sugar, and white rice (which means pretty much no nutrition or fiber.) This recipe takes the cake. Swapping the white rice for short grain brown rice (long grain will not get good results), real maple syrup (preferably Grade B), cinnamon (which modulates blood sugar) adding nuts (which add important monounsaturated fat, fiber, and minerals) and using coconut milk instead of cows milk (contains Lauric acid, a certain type of fat called MCT which your body loves) makes this dessert luscious and healthy.

RECIPE:

1 can organic coconut milk
Water (just enough to make the total liquid content 2 ¾ cups)

1 cup short grain brown rice
¼ cup unsweetened dried shredded coconut
4 tablespoons maple syrup (the real stuff)
¾ tsp cinnamon
1/2 tsp nutmeg
1/3 cup slivered almonds or pistachios (or any nut of choice)

Combine milk, water, rice, and coconut in medium sauce pan and bring to boil over high heat. Reduce heat to low and stir. Cover and simmer about 50 minutes.

Stir in everything else except the nuts, until well combined. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand for 10 minutes. Top with nuts. Serve hot or cold.

Sautéed Chicken Salad Sandwiches

By MARIE

Usually when one makes chicken salad the chicken is either boiled or left over from rotisserie. Both of these make wonderful chicken salad sandwiches but recently at a luncheon I had for my cousins, I prepared the chicken salad a little bit differently.

This time I bought a couple of fresh chicken breast slices and I sautéed them in butter and olive oil for a great flavor.

RECIPE

2 or three pieces of fresh chicken breast
2 stalks of celery finely chopped

Mayonnaise (as much as you prefer)

2 tablespoons of butter
1 tablespoon of olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste
1 package of finger rolls

In a skillet heat butter and oil, sauté the chicken turning both sides until chicken is done. Set aside to cool. After chicken is cooled, chop in small pieces. Add celery and mayonnaise and mix well until blended. Fill each finger roll, cover tightly and refrigerate until ready to eat.

Eoin Hurley Wins Awards At Hobart College

Hobart College senior long-stick midfielder Eoin Hurley earned lacrosse team and department-wide recognition when the 2019-20 Block H Awards were announced.

The Quincy native earned the team's Kent W. Marbury '62 Memorial Award for his dedication and hard work and the department's Joe Arnitz '66 Memorial Sportsmanship Award.

Hurley played in all five games this season, picking up 11 ground balls with three caused turnovers. He scooped up a season-high four ground balls in the win over Siena and then repeated that total the following weekend as Hobart beat Colgate.

Hurley has appeared in 27 games, collecting 24 ground balls and six caused turnovers.

Hobart led the nation in scoring offense, averaging 19.6 goals per game, this season. The Statesmen were 4-1 with wins over Binghamton, Canisius, Colgate and Siena. The team's lone loss was to Syracuse, which was No. 1 in the final coaches poll of the season. The remainder of the season was canceled due to the pandemic.

Quincy Native Rob Gutro Pens New Book 'Case Files For Inspired Ghost Tracking'

A new book called "Case Files of Inspired Ghost Tracking," by best-selling paranormal author and Quincy native Rob Gutro takes readers on paranormal investigations into private and historic homes where ghosts were traumatizing families.

Gutro, a medium in the Inspired Ghost Tracking paranormal group, announced the release of his seventh paranormal book that brings readers along on investigations and reveals some bizarre and shocking things the group found and how they helped the ghosts and families.

"When earthbound ghosts have traumatized families in their own homes, Inspired Ghost Tracking (IGT) of Maryland has gone in to cross them over," Gutro said. "Every case is different, too. Some have had earthbound ghosts that were friendly, others were not. IGT experienced a lot of bad energies that caused people to become physically sick or mentally traumatized. IGT investigators had to figure who, what, when and why things were happening, to finally bring peace to the living and the dead."

In this collection of IGT cases, you'll read about the "Burned Ghost," ghosts of two different time periods in one home, dark things that Ouija boards brought into homes, a very haunted Maryland mansion, many ghosts of Baltimore's Federal Hill, a ghostly attachment, a Steelworker's ghost, poltergeist activity, the famous IGT "Double Murder Ghost Investigation" and many more.

You'll find answers to questions like why ghosts choose to stay in a place, the differences and similarities between ghosts and spirits, why energy is the key to the paranormal and much more.

Although Gutro has become known as a "Pet Medium" through the success of his best-selling books "Pets and the Afterlife" and "Pets and the Afterlife 2," he also connects with human earthbound ghosts and spirits.

Gutro is the first in the paranormal field to make the distinction between earthbound ghosts and spirits who have crossed over. He has three books about his experience with human ghosts and spirits, called "Ghosts and Spirits," "Lessons Learned from Talking to the Dead," and "Ghosts of England on a Medium's Vacation," and most recently, "Kindred Spirits: How a Medium Befriended a Spirit."

Rob Gutro has been featured in the Washington Post and nationally syndicated radio programs like "Coast to Coast AM." Rob is a volunteer with Dachshund and Weimaraner rescues and gives fundraising lectures for animal rescues around the U.S., teaching grieving pet parents how pets communicate from the afterlife.

DOVE Receives $40,000 Grant from The Boston Foundation

DOVE (DOMestic Violence Ended) Inc., an independent non-profit organization providing assistance to survivors of domestic violence, announces it has received a $40,000 grant from The Boston Foundation's COVID-19 Response Fund.

The funding will support DOVE's ongoing programs and services as they continue to address the rising concerns for domestic violence victims who are under additional strain due to the pandemic.

"We at DOVE are deeply appreciative about this critically important support from The Boston Foundation and its commitment to provide critical support to the communities most affected by COVID-19," said Sue Chandler, executive director. "This support from The Boston Foundation will enhance DOVE's ability to continue to provide the essential services DOVE offers. It enables us to address the isolation and vulnerability faced by victims of domestic violence and the enormous emotional, psychological, and financial toll violence takes on victims, their children, and the community. Many victims and survivors are among those most deeply impacted financially by the current COVID-19 environment, and their situations may be further compounded by being trapped in a home with an abusive partner.

"We continue to adapt our services to make it possible for survivors to reach out to us as safely as possible, while still thinking hard about those who aren't able to reach us, and how to help them," Chandler added.

Ask Barbara Graceffa: Secretary Of The Interior: Will Pandemic Change Interior Design?

How do you think this pandemic will change interior design and decorating? Lucia and Nico

I foresee several important changes in both design and decoration of our homes.

When it comes to design, the open concept may be on its way out unless we find (or build) designated home office spaces in our homes. We may need to find a corner for a small home gym too if we fear sharing equipment (and germs) with fellow exercise enthusiasts. I also predict the resurgence of the pantry and larger linen closets as we continue our new practice of stockpiling non-perishable foods and toilet paper.

When it comes to interior decoration, I see color trends going in one of two opposite directions. For those who need to escape the current realities, either an energizing or soothing palette will dominate.

Playful, fun, lively colors like yellows, oranges, teals, and flamingo pinks will warm up our spirits and our rooms – inside or out. You can always mellow these out with neutrals like white, black and gray. A new wall color, easy chair, bedspread, shower curtain, or patio rug in these colors can bring joy to our surroundings.

Otherwise, for peace and serenity, softly muted neutrals or chalky pastels can evoke a visually calming home. Consider a mushroom color or a soft plum, light mossy green, or barely-there pink.

Speaking of simplicity, the uncluttered, paired-back look could forecast a quiet, uncomplicated décor style. A single comfy pillow and throw will create a Zen-like air but you will need to keep your decorations to a minimum.

Otherwise- another tale of contradictions, I see a revival of arts and crafts with handmade accessories like quilts, afghans, cross-stitch, watercolor paintings, clay pots, and the like. If the understated look isn't for you, load up on these décor items to recharge your living spaces with a nostalgic look.

Indoor plants and upcycled or painted furniture are also now trending. The former adds life to any room while the latter adds new life to what we already own. Besides, we can't go to the store to buy new furniture (yet!).

Itching For Summer To Arrive? - Poison Ivy FYI

Editor's note: due to the coronavirus outbreak and health emergency, Quincy Health Commissioner Ruth Jones is unable to submit new articles to The Quincy Sun. We are running some of her old health articles in the interim. The column below first appeared in The Sun three years ago.

By RUTH JONES
MSPH, BSN, RN,
BC, CP-FS

If you spend time outdoors, chances are you have been pestered by poison ivy at some point.

It starts innocently enough. You chop down a scraggly shrub while doing yardwork. Then, your arms and legs begin to tingling and turn red. Before you know you are covered with an itchy rash. Much too late you realize that shrub was actually poison ivy. Most people are sensitive to the plants' oily sap. The sap is in the root, stems, leaves and fruit of these plants. If it gets on your skin, it produces a blistering skin rash.

Problems can also arise if the plants are burned. Airborne sap-coated soot can get into the eyes, nose, throat and respiratory system.

Poison ivy is a plant indigenous to North America. The ivy is a climbing vine linked to the cashew family. Poison ivy produces an oily chemical called urushiol onto the surface of its leaves. When people come in contact with poison ivy, the urushiol can trigger an allergic skin reaction that produces dermatitis, a red, itchy, and painful inflammation of the skin. Close relatives of poison ivy plants that produce comparable dermatitis symptoms are poison oak and poison sumac. The poison ivy rash is an allergic reaction to the oily urushiol chemical from the leaf surface. This is an individual's allergic response to the chemical and is thus not considered to be contagious.

Nevertheless, if a person comes in contact with the oily chemical from an affected person's skin or clothing, then the urushiol could be transferred and a poison ivy rash may develop in a second individual. Direct contact with the oily chemical causes the symptoms and signs attributed to poison ivy.

Symptoms of poison ivy are:

- Localized mild skin redness (erythema)
- Itchy skin
- More severe symptoms may include the following:
 - Diffuse skin redness
 - Edema

- Severe pain and/or itching
- Blister (bullous) skin lesions
- Secondary skin infections

The primary treatment for someone who has recently been exposed to any of these plants includes rinsing the affected area with ample amounts of warm water within 20-30 minutes of exposure to remove the oily plant resin. The usefulness of rinsing decreases with the passage of time, because the oily plant resin is quickly absorbed into the skin. Some experts advocate rinsing with rubbing alcohol, commercially available poisonous plant washes, or degreasing soaps and detergents. Cortisone preparations and antihistamines may help reduce the symptoms and signs.

Dermatologists imply that the first exposure to poison ivy has an incubation period of about five to 21 days before the rash appears. However, repeated exposure to poison ivy results in the rash appearing more rapidly, typically in about 12-48 hours. The diagnosis is formulated utilizing the patient's history and physical exam, likelihood of exposure to poison ivy and the appearance of the rash symptoms and signs described previously. Usually no further tests are required.

Poison ivy is not contagious and is not spread like an infectious disease from person to person. Nonetheless, it can spread if the oily chemical on one person's skin is touched by another person. Even if the oil is on a person's skin or clothing, anyone who comes in contact with the irritant may develop symptoms. Additionally, if the person who has poison ivy touches clothing or other areas of his body that has the irritant on the skin surface; it can spread to other parts of their own body.

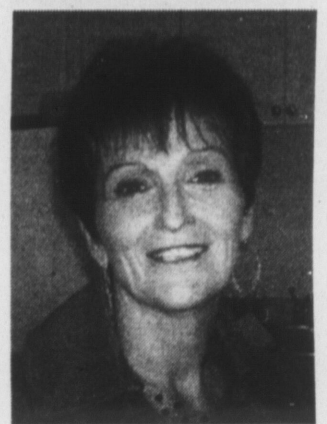

Consequently, it is very important to clean off the skin and clothing that has been exposed to the oil and to not scratch or touch the developing rash area if it has not been washed off as this could transfer oil to the eyes, mouth, or other areas of the body. Washing the exposed area within 20 minutes after exposure diminishes the symptoms and signs of poison ivy rash. Once the oily irritant is removed, spread of the rash is prevented, although itching and some pain may take a few days to fade.

Individuals with a poison ivy rash usually do not require medical care. The majority of individuals with poison ivy will have the rash and other symptoms gradually resolve over a period of about one to three weeks. Home care may include cool showers, cool compresses, calamine lotion, and/or hydrocortisone cream. If any blisters develop, it is advisable to leave them alone and refrain from scratching the irritated skin area.

However, some individuals may be extremely sensitive or allergic to the oily chemical produced by poison ivy. If any of the following symptoms or signs arise after being in contact with the irritant produced by poison ivy, the individual should seek immediate medical care:

- Difficulty with breathing or trouble swallowing
- Swelling, especially around the eyes
- Fever
- A rash develops on the face and/or genitalia.
- A rash covers most of an individual's body.
- Nothing relieves the discomfort (itching, pain) of the rash

To outsmart poison ivy:
• Wash your garden tools and gloves routinely. If you think you may be working around poison ivy, wear long sleeves, long pants tucked into boots, and impermeable gloves.

• Wash your pet if it may have brushed up against poison ivy, oak, or sumac. Most pets are not sensitive to poison ivy, but the oil can stick to their fur and cause a reaction in someone who pets them.

• Wash your skin in soap and cool water as soon as possible if you come in contact with a poisonous plant. The sooner you cleanse the skin, the greater the chances that you can remove the plant oil or help prevent further spread.

Here's wishing you a scratch-free summer!

QC's Anthony Peacock Earns NJCAA All American Honors

It's a growing trend that high school basketball players in Massachusetts, looking to further their collegiate basketball dreams, are now strongly looking at the Quincy College Granite men's basketball program to make those goals come true.

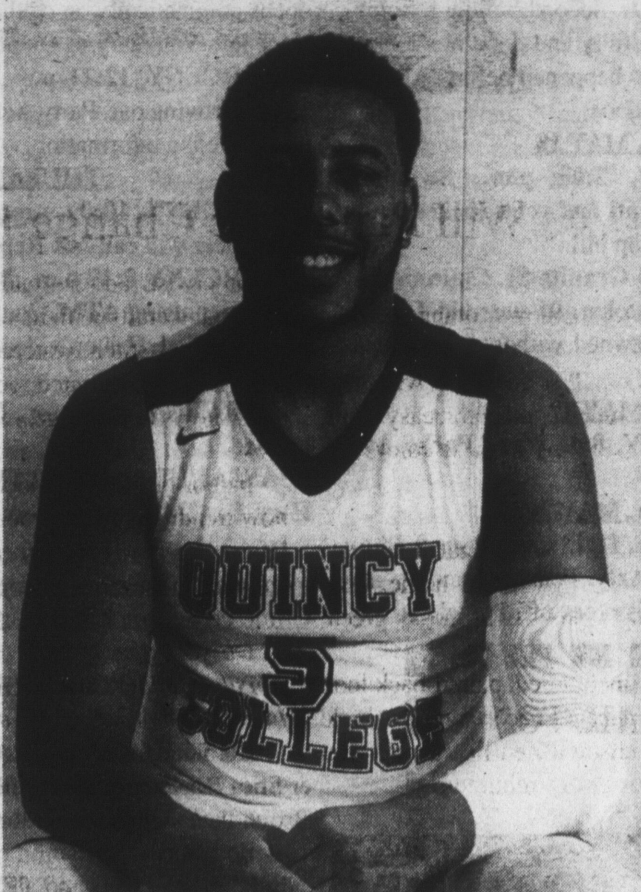

Quincy College netted its second National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) All American honor in three years awarded to Braintree's Anthony Peacock for the 2019-2020 men's basketball season. Peacock earned third team honors in the nationwide NJCAA basketball poll.

Peacock joins former Quincy College Granite player Devin Palmer, who was named 2018 first team All American, to help catapult the Quincy College's competitive men's basketball program.

Peacock recently signed an NCAA Letter of Intent to receive a full scholarship to Division II powerhouse Catawba College in Salisbury, North Carolina.

Peacock reflected on being named an NJCAA All American and his basketball and academic career at Quincy College:

"I can't thank enough Head Coach Doug (Scott), the Quincy College Granite Athletic Department, and the Quincy College community as a whole who made my time at Quincy College a life-changing experience. From the coaches, my advisors, and the Student Life support I received at Quincy College, I am a success due to the efforts of so many. I have been blessed with two great coaches in my career - Coach Bob Croke at Braintree High School and Head Coach Doug Scott at Quincy College."

Braintree High School Coach Bob Croke said:

"Anthony was a fast learner and one of the most coachable kids he has ever had, who had a great basketball mind on the court which set him above the rest."

Granite Head Coach Doug Scott said he sees a similar athlete in Peacock, during his tenure with Quincy College Granite.

"Anthony's leadership skills on the team and the way he would take over a game when it came to crunch time led Quincy College Granite to numerous victories this season. Anthony is also a mentor and leader off-court participating in the Read Across America Event, reading to elementary school children and served the Quincy College campus community as a New Student Orientation leader. We are certainly proud of Devin and Anthony and our other players who have come to us at Quincy College, achieved academic and basketball success, and moved onto many local division II and III programs as well."

Quincy College Athletic Director Jack Raymer said: "Anthony certainly took full advantage of the numerous opportunities offered to our student athletes here at the College. Along with basketball, he utilized the academic support from Student Development, and interacted with a caring faculty that resulted in the needed college support to make a scholarship dream come true."

Peacock also thanked his family for their support throughout his high school and college career so far, and they expect to continue with him on his future journey of completing his basketball goals at Catawba.

Currently, Quincy Athletics is recruiting for a women's basketball and a men's club ice hockey program to begin next fall at the college, along with men's soccer and co-ed cross country programs. Coach Scott said he is excited with the players from this year's team returning, and a strong recruiting class knocking on the Quincy College door for the 2020-2021 season which starts in November.

NEW QUINCY LOCATION! 1250 Hancock St. Quincy, MA 02169

On Friday, May 15, 2020, at approximately 10:00 p.m., Officer Paul Foley was on routine patrol in the area of Hancock Court when he heard a loud bang and then a burglar alarm sounding. He then saw a male wearing blue jeans and a bright orange shirt running away from a wide open door at the front of the Discovery Day Treatment Center at 12 Hancock Court.

The male sprinted through the rain westbound on Hancock Court before crossing the street, cutting through the parking lot above I-Party and disappearing into the front doorway of another business. Since the officer did not actually see the man exit the open door of the building and acknowledging that it was not unusual for someone to be sprinting to get out of the pouring rain, he investigated further.

Officer Foley drove to the area where he last observed the male and examined the main door to 31 Hancock Court (Common area entrance to the Armed Forces Recruiting Center) was ajar and appeared to have been forced open. The officer requested additional units to respond and found the male seconds later on the second floor after following his wet footsteps. The male was ordered to the ground, handcuffed and advised of his Miranda rights, which he waived. The male then said, "I'm sorry. I was coming here to meet my sister and her friend and we were going to go out to eat."

Officers Cooper and S. Smith arrived on scene to assist. The area where the male was located appeared to be partially under construction and there were no lights. There was a desk in the middle of the room with a computer, iPad and numerous construction plans and documents. When asked if he worked in the building or knew anyone that worked in the building, the male said he did not which led to the conclusion that the male forced the door open to gain entry into the building. The Recruiting Center, which had a secondary locked and secured door off the hall way was never entered. The lock on the exterior door was damaged and appeared to have been forced open based on damage to the frame and locking mechanism.

A search of the male for weapons and evidence of the breaking and entering uncovered 35 Xanax pills and a plastic corner bag of marijuana in his front left pocket along with $1,756 cash in his front right pocket. The cash was in several different folds. When asked for his prescription, the male said he did not have the Xanax script on him and could not state the name of the prescribing physician or pharmacy.

While Officer Smith stood by with male, Officers Cooper and Foley responded back to where the male was first observed running from and found the front door of 12 Hancock Court to be wide open with the burglar alarm inside still sounding. A witness to the incident approached the Officers, stating that he witnessed the male attempting to enter a Jeep just before he observed him violently pull on the front door handle of 12 Hancock Ct. until it broke open. He added that when the burglar alarm went off the male fled.

The officers entered the building and found that nothing appeared to have been disturbed. The witness said he saw the male then go from 12 Hancock Court to 31 Hancock Court and this was when he observed Officer Foley on the scene. The witness also said the male looked out of the second floor window of the building in panic on the sight of the Police outside. Officer Foley returned to the area where the male was apprehended and found two $100 dollar bills on the floor at the base of that same second floor window. The male was transported to the station for booking and once there, the male attempted to snort a brown powder substance out of an un-knotted plastic corner baggie that he had hidden in his sock.

Officer Hack immediately seized the heroin and an ambulance was called. The male said he had been huffing "fix-a-flat" odors earlier in order to get "high." Due to the toxic combination of hazardous chemicals and heroin, he was transported to the Quincy ER for treatment. The male has a total of 58 arraignments on his adult criminal record including numerous property crimes. Five of these crimes are for breaking and entering. He was found guilty of breaking and entering in the night time in January 2015 in Quincy District Court.

The male, a 35-year-old Weymouth resident, was charged with one count of attempted breaking and entering of a motor vehicle at night (Jeep Patriot), two counts of breaking and entering in the night time with intent to commit a felony (12 & 31 Hancock Ct.), two counts of wanton destruction of property over $1,200 (2 commercial steel doors). He was found guilty of possession with intent to distribute Class A and B drugs on 1/15/15. The male had a total of $1,956 cash on him that was separated into four different folds.

Based on Officer Foley's training and experience, he knew this is a common technique used by street level drug dealers to separate out their individual number of drug sales (in this case four). He also knew the amount of Xanax pills the male had in his possession (loose in his front left pocket) is not consistent with what a user/abuser of this type of anxiety medication would carry with them. It is, however, consistent with the way a street level dealer would carry these type of pills around so that they could be easily sold. The male could simply reach into his front left pocket and sell a pill(s) and then take the profit and slip it into his front right pocket.

Officer Foley also charged the male suspect with one count of possession with intent to distribute Class C (Xanax) subsequent offense and one count of possession class A (heroin) Subsequent offense.

Nice Work!

* Car breaks are starting to go up. Keep in mind almost all of these incidents involve unlocked car doors! Make it a habit to lock your car doors at all times. Often times, the criminal is looking for money or something to sell to buy drugs.

Keep in mind that your car remote has an alarm on it. Bringing it to your bedroom at night acts as an alarm if someone was trying to break in. Just hit the alarm button and your horn of your vehicle will sound, which should send the criminal running!

Superintendent Search Committee To Be Named

By SCOTT JACKSON

A 13-member search committee – including parents, teachers and school administrators – will be tasked with screening candidates who apply to become the next superintendent of the Quincy Public Schools and identifying finalists for the position who would then be interviewed by the School Committee.

The School Committee approved the creation of the search committee on May 20. During the meeting, members also signed off on a community survey that will be used to shape the creation of a leadership profile the search committee and school board will take in to consideration when vetting candidates.

"I do want to thank all of my colleagues for the work you put in the last few weeks," Anthony Andronico, the school board's vice chairman, said. "We made a lot of progress this meeting and we are finally getting to the point where we are doing less talking and more doing and that is always a good thing."

The 13-member search committee will include three members of the School Committee, three Quincy teachers, a Quincy Public Schools principal and member of the superintendent's leadership team, a representative from the Citywide PTO, a representative from the Quincy Parent Advisory Council, a parent of an English language learner in the school system, someone from the city's business and nonprofit community, and a high school student.

Mayor Thomas Koch, who said he would not serve on the search committee, will be responsible for appointing a majority of its members, including those from the school board, the principal and the person from the superintendent's leadership team. The mayor said he did not have a time-frame on when those appointments would be made but said it could possibly be done ahead of this week's school board meeting.

The Quincy Education Association will name the three teachers who serve on the search committee; the school board has asked that one teacher from each level – elementary, middle and high school – serve on the search committee. The parents' groups will select their own representatives as well.

Koch, who is the chairman of the school board, had initially suggested the creation of a nine-person search committee. Emily Lebo suggested the addition of a tenth member, the parent of an English language learner; Kathryn Hubley recommended the addition of an eleventh member, a current high schooler; and Douglas Gutro was the first to suggest three teachers, rather than one as the mayor suggested, be included so all three levels could be represented.

The survey asks residents and those in Quincy Public Schools community to rank their priorities for the school system and the skills and qualities they would like to see in the city's next superintendent on a scale from 1 to 5.

Among the two dozen priorities it asks about are educational leadership, college/career readiness, special education services, extracurricular activities, students' social and emotional wellbeing, technology, and quality of instruction.

The survey also asks about more than two dozen skills the next superintendent could possess, including budgeting and fiscal management, collective bargaining experience, experience in curriculum development and experience in classroom teaching.

In addition, the survey includes three open-ended questions asking respondents to identify what they believe the main strengths of the school system are, the main challenges the new superintendent will face, and which questions they would propose asking the candidates who apply for the job.

Responses to survey will be used to create the leadership profile for the new superintendent.

The leadership profile is different from a job description, Andronico said. The leadership profile will tell search committee members and the school board what the community wants to see in its next superintendent.

"A job description helps you get the initial candidates. It helps guide the search committee on screening applications – which ones should they be considering, which ones shouldn't they be," Andronico said.

"The leadership profile – the responses to the questionnaire – give them a better idea of what the community is looking for in a leader and can assist them in pushing forward candidates to the School Committee as finalists that are then questioned publicly by us."

The school board will post the survey online with the assistance of the Massachusetts Association of School Committees. The MASC will also organize focus groups for various stakeholders – parents, teachers, administrators, staff, students and residents – that will likewise be used to develop the leadership profile.

"Those are the different focus groups that MASC will run," Andronico said. "They go through our survey with the group and they do their best to get feedback that maybe an online survey can't capture or even further details...they basically make a document to supplement the survey responses and give that data to the School Committee and the search committee."

The school board has also begun to review a job description for the superintendent's position. The committee has asked for input on the job description from the outgoing superintendent, Richard DeCristofaro. The committee will also reach out to the MASC for a sampling of job descriptions published by other districts.

Social Security Matters

Ask Rusty – What Will My Wife's Survivor Benefit Be?

By RUSSELL GLOOR
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor
Association Of Mature American Citizen

Dear Rusty: I am a 68-year-old retired male and had planned on waiting to collect Social Security benefits beginning at age 70. My wife is currently 53 years old. When I die, would my wife's spousal benefit at her full retirement age be equal to what I would be receiving at age 70 or be reduced? Also, if I were to die before 70 and before collecting social security, what would be my wife's survivor benefit at her full retirement age? Signed: Older Husband

Dear Older Husband: Your wife's survivor benefit as your widow will depend upon two things – the amount you were receiving (or were eligible to receive) at your death, and the age at which she claims her survivor benefit as your widow.

If you were receiving an increased benefit because you waited until age 70, your wife's benefit – if she has reached her full retirement age – will be 100% of the amount you were receiving at your death. If she hasn't yet reached her full retirement age when she claims her survivor benefit (she could claim as early as age 60) the benefit will be actuarially reduced according to the number of months prior to her full retirement age (FRA) that she claims it. The amount of reduction for claiming her survivor benefit before her FRA is 0.396% for each full month earlier, which is 4.75% per year earlier than her FRA, to a maximum of 28.5%. And for clarity, your wife isn't required to take the survivor benefit immediately upon your death; she can wait until the benefit reaches 100% at her full retirement age, if desired and if financially feasible.

If your wife is also eligible for a SS benefit on her own work record and you die before she reaches her FRA, she will have the choice to take either her own Social Security benefit or her survivor benefit from you. If her survivor benefit will be her highest possible benefit, she would have the option to take her own SS retirement benefit from her own work record first and delay taking the larger survivor benefit until it reaches maximum at her FRA. Or, if her own benefit at age 70 would be more than her survivor benefit from you, she could take the smaller survivor benefit first and delay taking her own SS benefit until it reaches maximum at age 70 and switch to her own benefit at that time. The goal is for her to get the highest possible benefit for the rest of her life.

Finally, if you were to die before you started collecting your increased Social Security benefit at age 70, your wife would still have the same options, but her survivor benefit amount would be based upon the amount you were eligible to receive at your death, even though you were not yet collecting. In other words, all those delayed retirement credits (DRCs) you are now earning (and will continue to earn until you are 70) will not be lost – the benefit you have earned up to the point you die will be what your wife's survivor benefit is based upon.

D.A. Morrissey's Message To Those Impacted By Opioid Epidemic

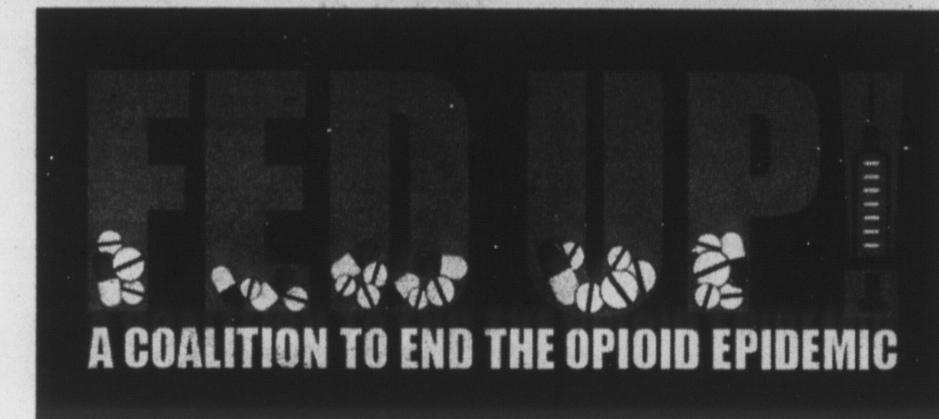

District Attorney Michael W. Morrissey is reminding people directly affected by the opioid epidemic that an important deadline is approaching.

June 30, 2020 is the last date that people harmed by Purdue Pharma's role in fueling the opioid epidemic can file a claim for compensation in the firm's pending bankruptcy.

"We have learned from our investigation of the hundreds of fatal overdoses occurring in Norfolk County in recent years, as well as our outreach, prevention, and education efforts, that many eventually fatal addictions began with a legal prescription for pain medicine," Morrissey said.

"Parents, children, spouses, siblings, and those with substance use disorder themselves, have expressed outrage at the lack of accountability for those who gained unimaginable wealth while causing unimaginable misery," Morrissey said.

Purdue Pharma filed for bankruptcy in the Southern District of New York in September 2019. Chairman

FILE A CLAIM IN THE PURDUE PHARMA BANKRUPTCY

CASE- DEADLINE IS JUNE 30, 2020

People who have been harmed by prescription opioids from Purdue Pharmaceutical have until June 30 to submit their claim.

Purdue drugs include Oxycontin. The victim, representatives of minors, or wrongful death claims, are eligible to file.

Problems that can earn reimbursement include death, addiction, loss of a spouse or wages, life enjoyment, or neonatal abstinence syndrome (NAS).

of Purdue Pharma Steve Miller was quoted in USA Today the following day: "This settlement framework avoids wasting hundreds of millions of dollars and years on protracted litigation and instead will provide billions of dollars and critical resources to communities across the country trying to cope with the opioid crisis."

Details on who is eligible to file a claim, and how to go about doing so, is available at www.purduepharma-claims.com.

"As a district attorney, I cannot provide anyone with civil legal advice," said

Morrissey, who has worked with the FED UP Coalition to End the Opioid Epidemic over several years. "But as someone who has seen too much destruction because of this epidemic, I urge you to follow that link and read for yourself."

How To Retool Your Retirement Plan In The Midst Of COVID-19

The coronavirus pandemic has hit the economy hard, and people who are nearing retirement or already retired are feeling the stress.

"COVID-19 has caused a lot of retirees and those approaching retirement to rethink their plan for retirement," says Dennis Notchick, a certified financial planner for Stratos Wealth Advisors (www.dn.stratoswealthadvisors.com). "Falling interest rates, massive volatility in the stock market, and stifled economic growth are having a massive effect on psychology."

"A plan created years ago may not be as efficient when interest rates were much higher and the economy was in better shape. Stress testing your current retirement plan adapted to the post-COVID-19 world can show if you're positioned to weather this storm or in need of an update."

Notchick suggests the following tips to re-evaluate a retirement plan and perhaps retool it to withstand the effects of COVID-19:

- Take precise inventory of expenses. "Sometimes people don't realize how much they are actually spending," Notchick says. "When they lay it out, they're shocked. For accurate retirement income planning you must have good data to understand where the money goes each month – everything it takes to live, plus discretionary expenses. A dollar saved is a dollar earned and is more important now than ever."

- Check asset location and effects on taxes. "Tax planning in retirement is critical to understand," Notchick says. "It's about knowing how the different accounts are taxed in conjunction with other income streams like Social Security benefits, rental income, pensions, etc. A savings account will be taxed differently than a Roth IRA, which will be different than a 401(k), or SEP IRA. Another important point to remember is that dividends, interest and capital gains may not be taxed equally, some can be taxed as high as your ordinary tax rate, and some may be completely tax free. Income tax planning in retirement will expose any tax-planning missteps."

- Bridge the retirement income gap. Notchick points out the need to tailor retirement plans for the inevitable costs of aging, some health related as well. Income diversification ensures a strong, well-built plan. "If you have an income shortfall in retirement, where will that come from?" Notchick asks. "It may make sense to use a variety of income sources like dividends, capital gains and income from an annuity."

- Re-assess your risk tolerance. "Some investors may have been complacent over the past year; markets kept going up and nobody worries about markets going up," Notchick says. "COVID-19 changed that, not only is there more inherent risk in the stock market, but because of the zero interest-rate policy enacted by the Federal Reserve, interest-rate risk is high. When rates move back up, bond prices will go down. This has also caused more risk-taking because the interest rates are so low on bonds of all maturities and when you take inflation into account, you are actually going backwards."

- Ask these questions. "Does fear of loss or stability keep you up at night? At this stage of your life, how much risk do you need to achieve your goals? Failing to plan is planning for failure," Notchick says. "This applies to all aspects of life, including retirement."

"Holistic financial planning for retirement ensures all parts of the financial plan are working together – investments, taxes, estate planning, etc." Notchick says. "The pandemic has made the picture murky for some in retirement, but an updated retirement roadmap will allow you to get to your retirement destination with clarity."

Dennis Notchick, a certified financial planner for Stratos Wealth Advisors (www.dn.stratoswealthadvisors.com), has been serving high net-worth families and business owners since 2008. A certified financial planner since 2010, Notchick has worked with well-respected firms on Wall Street and provides consulting on investment management, retirement planning and holistic financial planning. He's been published or mentioned in numerous online financial publications, including The Wall Street Journal, CNBC, and TheStreet.

34 Firefighters Complete Training, Begin Service

throughout the city's eight firehouses.

The academy was held at the former St. Mary School and rectory in West Quincy. Barron said a typical day began in morning with lessons inside the basement of the rectory and then practical training took place in the afternoon inside the school building or outside in the parking lot. The firefighters also made trips to the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy in Stow and to the Boston Fire Department's facility on Moon Island.

The class of 34 who went through the academy is among the largest in the city's history, Barron said. He spent months beforehand preparing to run the academy and credited Capt. George Wirtz, who previously trained a class of more than two dozen recruits, for setting a template for him to follow.

"The past training captain, George Wirtz, left a good template for me to follow," Barron said. "It took a couple months' worth of preparation. There was a lot of scheduling involved."

In addition, the St. Mary School and the church rectory — which the city purchased as the future site of an elementary school — needed to be prepared for use as a training academy.

"We had a lot of volunteers from the department who helped clean it and set up props," Barron said. "It was a team effort."

As the academy progressed, adjustments were made in light of the COVID-19 pandemic. That included the cancellation of a graduation ceremony at the conclusion of the academy.

"We were constantly going by whatever the CDC guidelines were," Barron said, adding that temperature checks were administered as part of the adjustments.

The new recruits were unfazed by the circumstances, however.

"It was, I imagine, a trying 11 weeks for all of them, but you wouldn't know it based on their behavior," Barron said.

The 34 new firefighters are:

Sons Of American Legion Memorial Day Observance

SONS OF THE AMERICAN LEGION, Squadron 294, Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy, held a modified Memorial Day observance last Saturday at Flags for Veterans Island, Fort Square, Quincy. An abbreviated ceremony was held due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Here Joe Brill raises the American, MIA-POW and SAL flags to half staff as veterans and members of SAL salute. At far left is SAL Commander Paul Moody who in brief opening remarks noted this was the 10th year of the SAL Memorial Day ceremony.

ROBERT LaFLEUR, past commander, Morrisette American Legion Post and a member of the Sons of the American Legion, Squadron 294, plays taps in memory of all veterans who sacrificed their lives fighting in this nation's wars to defend liberty and freedom.

Bryan VFW Post 613 (center) and Joe Brill, membership officer, Sons of the American Legion, pause after a memorial wreath was placed at the base of the main flag pole at Flags for Veterans Island at the Squadron's annual Memorial Day observance. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the 400 flags that are normally placed on the island for Memorial Day were not installed for this year's ceremony. The Squadron plans to decorate the island before Veterans' Day this fall.

GUY FERRIS, adjutant, Sons of the American Legion, offers some remarks on the meaning of Memorial Day and the "tab" for liberty - the tens of thousands of U.S. servicemen and women who were killed serving their country in war time. He also recited "In Flanders Field," a war poem written during the First World War by Canadian physician Lieutenant-Colonel John McCrae.

AMERICAN FLAGS decorate the graves of some of the 930 veterans buried in the veterans' section at Mount Wollaston Cemetery in observance of Memorial Day.

VOLUNTEERS fan out at Mount Wollaston Cemetery placing American flags at the graves of veterans in the veterans' section of the cemetery on Sea Street across from the Quincy Police Station (background). Quincy Veterans Services coordinated the grave decoration effort. About a dozen volunteers helped decorate 930 graves in the veterans' section. In all some 4,500 veterans' graves in the cemetery each received an American flag in observance of Memorial Day.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your Aries self-esteem level is high, as is your impatience to see more action come your way in the workplace. Good news, Lamb: It could start to happen sooner than you think.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Changing things now could upset a lot of people. But if you feel you're acting because you believe it's the right thing to do, others will understand and even come to support you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A change of mind might not necessarily be a change of heart. You still want to go ahead with your plans, but you might see a better way to make them happen. So go for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) An old business dispute could re-emerge and possibly affect upcoming negotiations. Consider opening up the situation to include suggestions from others on both sides of the issue.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some Leos and Leonas might find it somewhat difficult to get their ideas accepted or even considered. But that's only for a while. Things will soon return to the way you like them.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The pace seems to be slowing down from the hectic on-the-job run you recently enjoyed. But be assured that you're still in the race to pick up new workplace-related goodies.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Seasonal changes create opportunities for busy Librans. However, be sure to balance your workload with your personal life so that you don't overdo it on one end or the other.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A former critic could make a surprise turnaround and become a supporter. But if your Scorpion sense suspects a questionable motive, who are the rest of us to doubt it?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Data on a new project seems less than dependable. But it might turn out to be just the opposite. Consult with someone who knows how you might best be able to check it out.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Capricorns face many decisions this week, with the Sea Goat's kids rating high on the consideration scale, especially regarding vacations and upcoming school matters.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Showing that you care is what Aquarians do so well. It's your very special skill. And this week, you'll have several chances to show off that gift for a very special person. Good luck.

PISCES (February 19 to March 21) That streak of Piscean wariness should serve you well this week should you be among those who come up against a slippery character offering a fishy deal with nothing to back it up.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have an artist's sense of how to help others see, as you do, the beautiful things about the world.

HOLLYWOOD

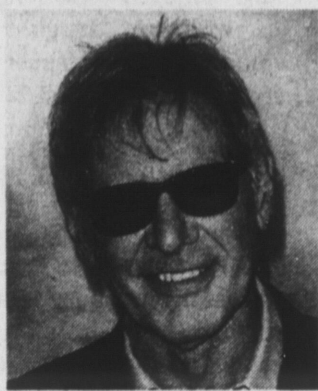

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD -- Time doesn't go backward, it only goes forward. The movie industry will take a long time to recover from the effects of our pandemic, and it will never be the same again.

Movie studios and producers hate giving up half their profits to movie theaters to show their films. So when theaters closed, by government decree, it gave the studios a chance to test the waters. The first film made for theaters that premiered on-demand was "Trolls World Tour," which brought in a big bounty. Then the new $65 million Chris Hemsworth film "Extraction," which was to premiere in theaters April 24, instead made its debut on Netflix and was viewed by 90 million households in the first four weeks.

That's not to say films made in 3D or IMAX can be streamed first, since their charm is big screens and special effects. Which is why the fourth G.I. Joe epic was instead pushed to Oct. 23 in theaters. This reboot is called "G.I. Joe: Snakes Eyes," with "Crazy Rich Asians" star Henry Golding in the title role. You probably remember that Channing Tatum starred in the original (which grossed $302 million) and Dwayne Johnson in the sequel, "G.I. Joe: Retaliation" (which grossed $678 million). Naturally there's already a fourth film being prepped, "G.I. Joe: Ever Vigilant," though no star has been announced for this one.

Four-time Oscar nominee Saoirse Ronan stars in director Wes Anderson's new film "The French Dispatch." She'll again be paired with Timothee Chalamet (as in "Little Women,"), as well as four Oscar-winning actors: Benicio Del Toro, Adrien

Brody, Tilda Swinton and Jeffrey Wright. Chalamet, meanwhile, has a date with "Dune," the reboot of the classic Frank Herbert science-fiction novel, premiering Dec. 18.

Superstar Harrison Ford, now 77, recently had his third flying close call (that we know of). In 2015, he crash-landed a vintage World War II plane on a golf course in Los Angeles. He was lucky he was only "battered but OK." Then in 2017, he landed on a taxi runway after he flew over a jet and again was unharmed. Most people were under the impression Ford was going to stop flying. Yet here we are today, hearing Harrison is "under investigation by the Federal Aviation Administration over an incident that happened at a Southern California airport." He apparently was piloting his light plane and crossed a runway where another aircraft was landing. Ford acknowledged the mistake and apologized by saying, "I misheard an instruction from air traffic control."

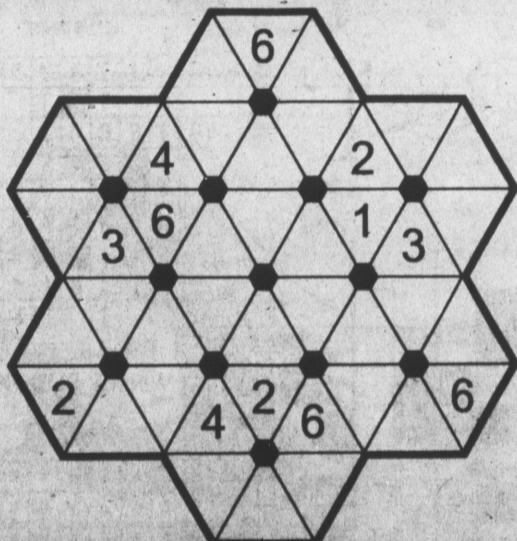

Ford is a true superstar, and in an era where we have so few, we need him healthy and in one piece so he can be beaten to a pulp in the new Indiana Jones epic!

Puzzle Pitcher

This elaborately decorated puzzle pitcher was made in Budapest, Hungary. In 1839, Moritz Fischer bought a factory that had been operating in Herend, Hungary, since 1826. He started making dinner sets for Hungarians because the old sets from Europe and the Far East were no longer available. The company started making figurines in the 1870s. At the turn of the century, Jenő, Moritz Fischer's grandson, took over the company, revived the old patterns and made new ones. Fischer Company was nationalized in 1948. Another company named Herend started importing Herend china into the United States in 1957. Herend was privatized in 1993 and is still working making Hungarian-style ceramics.

Just how old is this traditional puzzle jug marked "Fischer J Budapest"? In Hungarian, surnames are written first, and I and J are the same. The Fischer J in the mark stands for Ignac Fischer, a distant relative of Moritz, who trained with his father and later with Moritz. In 1867, Ignac started making his own ceramics that were similar to those made at the Zsolnay factory. Around 1895, Ignac Fischer's company became part of the Zsolnay factory in Pecs. The mark on the puzzle jug was used from about 1867 to about 1895, even though the pieces look much older.

Q: Can you tell me the approximate value of old newspapers? I have the full copy of The New York Times newspaper from Saturday April 15, 1865, with the headline "Awful Event, President Lincoln Shot by an Assassin," as well as a newspaper of Kennedy's assassination.

A: Old newspapers covering major events, like the assassinations of Lincoln and Kennedy, the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, the sinking of the Titanic, the San Francisco earthquake and other major catastrophes, sell for the highest prices. The front page of the April 15, 1865, New York Times sold at auction for $450 last year. A copy of the same issue, with eight pages, sold for $1,200 three years ago. But beware, many copies have been made of the famous newspapers. Old newspapers yellow and fall apart unless properly stored.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

• Italy was the only country to issue stamps specifically for mail traveling through bank tubes until the practice was discontinued in 1966.

• Kleenex tissues were originally developed as crepe paper and used for gas mask filters.

• Proof that human nature is the one thing that never really changes: The oldest "your mama" joke was discovered in 1976 on a 3,500-year-old Babylonian tablet in Iraq.

• The "Jesus Nut" on a helicopter fixes the rotor blades to the vehicle. It comes by its unusual moniker because, if it should fail, your only option is to pray to Jesus!

• Do you, like most people, normally skip reading the fine print? You might want to reconsider that. In 2017, 22,000 people who signed up for free public Wi-Fi from the UK-based technology firm Purple learned their lesson when they inadvertently agreed to 1,000 hours of community service that included cleaning toilets and "relieving sewer blockages." The company said it inserted the clause in its contract "to illustrate the lack of consumer awareness of what they are signing up to when they access free Wi-Fi."

• In 2014, a new species of vine was discovered in Chile that can mimic the leaves of many different host trees by changing the size, shape, color, orientation and even the vein patterns of its leaves to match the surrounding foliage. It is the only known plant that can do this.

• When asked how he was able to portray battle scenes so accurately, Stephen Crane, author of "The Red Badge of Courage," replied that he learned all he needed to know about war from football.

• Women blink nearly twice as much as men.

Now here's a tip!

by Jo Ann Derson

• Need a twist tie in an emergency? Check your coffee bag. Many bean bags sold these days -- from the grocery store and specialty roasters alike -- come in a bag with a twist tie built in, so you can fold the bag down and retain freshness. If you really need one, you can pull the twist tie off and seal your grounds in a tin or a zipper-top baggie.

• Get to know your frozen veggies. There's been a lot of emphasis in the past about fresh vegetables. While they're great, it's not always possible to get to the grocer's or farmer's market regularly. Frozen veggies often have the most vitamins because most are flash frozen right after harvest. You can find many varieties, and they're easy to use in most recipes.

• New use for a favorite mug: "My friend gave me a coffee mug that's adorable, but it's not very nice in the microwave -- it just gets too hot! I drink hot tea, and my mug is constantly in and out of the microwave. So, I use my gift mug to hold tea bags! It sits on my counter and holds enough packaged bags for a full week. And I can look at it and think of my friend." -- T.W. in South Carolina

• "To get the rubber tops of my son's sneakers clean, and keep them that way, I use the melamine cleaning sponges, like the Magic Eraser. Just get it damp, rub off (most) grass stains and keep it handy." -- P.E. in Kentucky

• Gotta paint a door? Put a lag bolt into the top and bottom of the door, on the narrow. This way, the lag bolt rests on your sawhorses, and you can flip the door over to paint each side. No longer do you have to paint one side, let it dry ALL THE WAY and then flip it over, risking paint getting pulled off the edges.

• For long-lasting condiments, here's a great practice: Write the date you open it on the jar or bottle. If there's not a good place, try using a piece of tape. This way you can better track how long that ranch dressing has been lurking in your fridge, rather than relying on the date it's good until.

Q: One of my all-time favorite crime dramas was "Homicide." I loved Andre Braugher's interrogations and monologues. What ever happened to the actor who played Det. Bayliss, his partner on the show. Is he still acting? — P.B.

A: It's hard to believe it's been almost 30 years since the critically acclaimed "Homicide: Life on the Street" first aired on NBC. It was based on the nonfiction book of the same name by Baltimore journalist David Simon, but seems to have been eclipsed in popularity by Simon's later series "The Wire," which ran on HBO for 60 episodes. "Homicide" deserves to be seen just as much, in my opinion.

As for actor Kyle Secor, who was excellent as Det. Tim Bayliss alongside the commanding Braugher, he's now 63 years old and has been acting steadily since "Homicide" ended in 1999. He currently plays Deputy Fire Chief Alden Radford on Fox's "9-1-1: Lone Star," alongside Rob Lowe. Before that he was a regular on "Veronica Mars" and "The Flash," and guest-starred on many, many primetime series.

Q: When is "The Umbrella Academy" returning for another season? I really enjoyed watching this with my daughter, compared to most super-hero-type shows. — R.J.

A: Good news! Season 2 will premiere on July 31 on Netflix with 10 new one-hour episodes. Returning stars include Ellen Page and Tom Hopper, along with three new additions: Ritu Arya ("Humans"), Yusuf Gatewood ("Good Omens") and Marin Ireland ("Sneaky Pete"). Mary J Blige may yet return as time-traveling assassin Cha-Cha.

"The Umbrella Academy" is based on the comic book by the same title about a group of adopted sibling superheroes. The first season was reportedly watched in 45 million Netflix-subscribing households, so it's no surprise that it was quickly given the greenlight for a second season.

Q: With HBO and the other premium channels offering free months due to the shelter-in-place order, why do I have to pay to view the earlier season-four episodes of "The Good Place"? I binged the first three seasons on Netflix, and now I can only view the final four episodes for free and the rest are $1.99 each. I really want to finish out the story. I wonder if this is an NBC or an

FIOS thing? — H.M.

A: Unfortunately, you're going to have to wait until late August or September to view season four of the clever comedy "The Good Place" on Netflix. Reportedly, you can watch all of the final season for free on the NBC.com website if you have a cable or satellite subscription. Log on to Help.NBC.com to learn more.

Another option that is less expensive than buying each episode for $1.99 is to purchase "The Good Place: Season 4" DVD set through Amazon, which is priced at $16.99. Lastly, some public libraries carry DVD sets of not just movies, but of entire TV series that library cardholders can check out for free.

Fleas Spark Cat Spat

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I visited my friend's house with my cat back in March. Now, my friend says my cat, "Chuckles," gave her cat fleas. She wants me to pay for flea treatment. I say my cat doesn't have fleas and I don't owe her a thing. What do you say? -- Sierra in Modesto, California

DEAR SIERRA: This is one of those spats that sometimes end up being resolved on a TV court show. While entertaining for the audience, it can be heartbreaking for both parties and can end the friendship.

There is, of course, no proof that will convince your friend that Chuckles didn't have fleas back in March. She may not even accept the fact that it's possible to pick up fleas or flea eggs while walking outdoors and bring them into the house, where they can hatch and then hop on board a pet's fur. And now that flea and tick season is in full swing, what may have started out as a few fleas is now a full-blown infestation.

I'm not a relationship therapist, but if you value the friendship, offer to compromise somehow. You might pay for half the cost of the flea treatment -- topical treatments can be pricey. You could purchase flea prevention products and offer to help apply them in and around her home -- with the promise that you'll apply them to your home, too, as a preventative measure.

In the meantime, double-check that Chuckles is flea-free. Comb through his hair and look for dark speckles or visible fleas near his skin. If there are certain spots that he scratches frequently, pay special attention. Even the most diligent cat mamas may deal with fleas at the height of the season.

Learn more about flea prevention in my ebook, Fighting Fleas, available on Amazon.com. And send your flea prevention tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

Former Sheriff Mike Bellotti Running For Country Treasurer

By SCOTT JACKSON

A former sheriff of Norfolk County has entered the race for county treasurer and will face a member of the Quincy City Council in a Democratic primary election in September.

Michael Bellotti, who was the sheriff of Norfolk County from 1999 until late 2018, has qualified for the September ballot, according to the secretary of state's office. A Squantum resident, Bellotti served six years in the state House of Representatives prior to becoming sheriff. He resigned from the sheriff's job to become interim president of Quincy College, a job he left in November.

Bellotti could not be reached for comment.

His opponent in the Democratic primary will be Ward 2 Councillor Brad Croall, who has also qualified for the ballot. Croall, a Penn's Hill resident, has served on the Quincy City Council since 2012. He was the council president in 2018 and 2019.

The incumbent treasurer, James Timilty, is not running this year. No Republican candidates are seeking the position.

This fall's ballot will also

include a special election to fill the remainder of Bellotti's term as sheriff, plus contests for register of probate and county commissioner.

All four candidates who entered the special election for sheriff have qualified the ballot.

Those include Jerry McDermott, a Westwood Republican who Gov. Charlie Baker named sheriff following Bellotti's resignation.

Three Democrats have qualified for the race as well and will face off in September. They are James Coughlin, a retired State Police detective from Dedham; Patrick McDermott of Quincy, the county's register of probate; and former Quincy mayor William Phelan.

Five candidates, all Democrats, have qualified for the ballot in the race to replace Patrick McDermott as register of probate. They are: Colleen Brierley, a Norwood attorney; Noel DiBona, a Quincy city councillor; Kathryn Hubley, a member of the Quincy School Committee; Courtney Madden, a Quincy attorney; and Michael Walsh, a Westwood selectman.

Two candidates have qualified for the ballot in the race for county commissioner.

They are incumbent Joseph Shea, a Quincy Democrat and former city clerk, and Brookline Selectwoman Heather Hamilton, an unrolled candidate.

Braintree Town Councillor Charles Ryan, a Democrat, has collected enough signatures to appear on the ballot but still has to file a receipt from the State Ethics Commission confirming that he has filed his statement of financial interest before he can be officially on the ballot, according to the secretary of state's office. Two other Democrats, Dedham Selectman Dennis Guilfoyle and Canton attorney Richard R. Staiti of have yet to file.

Candidates have until June 2 to file with the secretary of state's office.

Colleen Brierley Candidate Norfolk Register Of Probate

COLLEEN BRIERLEY

Attorney Colleen Brierley of Norwood announces her candidacy for Norfolk County Register of Probate and Family Court.

The seat is being vacated by three-term incumbent Patrick McDermott of Quincy and there are currently five candidates in the race.

Brierley said, "I am uniquely qualified to be the next Register of Probate because I am the only candidate with over 30 years of experience working for children and families before the Probate and the Juvenile Courts of Massachusetts." A Democrat, Brierley is seeking the Democratic nomination for Norfolk Register of Probate in this fall's state election.

Brierley said she learned early on in her career that the courts play a powerful role in people's lives.

Brierley said, "As a probation aide, social worker, youth advocate and now as an attorney, I have zealously and compassionately helped people navigate the court system to find solutions."

Brierley said, "I know that the Register of Probate can make a positive impact and that is why I'm in this race. Programs aimed at support and connections to treatment are one of my top priorities. Other programs believe that the Register of Probate works directly for the people within the 28 cities and towns that make up Norfolk County. My experience makes me the best candidate for this leadership role."

For the past 22 years, Colleen Brierley has operated her private law practice in Norwood. Brierley is also co-founder and manager of the nonprofit, Journey to Parenthood. Journey to Parenthood assists people across the country with the high costs of adoption and fertility treatments.

Of great importance to Brierley is the impact of addiction and the opioid crisis on families.

"Through my work in the courts, I have seen how this insidious drug affects families. I have also felt the heartache within my own family." Brierley's oldest brother battled a heroin addiction before passing away in 2015.

Colleen and her husband Bob met at Norwood High School and all five of their children attended and continue to attend the Norwood Public Schools. Brierley and her husband, who first became parents in the 1990s, have adopted three children through the Massachusetts foster care system.

Phelan Unveils Policy Platform Including COVID-19 Preparedness In Correctional Facilities

Bill Phelan, a Democratic candidate for Norfolk County sheriff and former mayor of Quincy, has unveiled an extensive policy agenda for the Norfolk County Sheriff's office.

Phelan announced his vision for the Norfolk County Sheriff's office in a campaign press release. The vision encompasses a 3-phase approach to humane rehabilitative care and comprehensive recovery programs that respect dignity, ensure fairness, strengthen communities, and most importantly, promote public safety.

"As Norfolk County Sheriff, my vision is to provide a continuum of services before, during and after incarceration delivered with compassion and dignity in a safe environment," said Phelan. "I will use my executive leadership skills and fiscal management experience to offer innovative new ideas that are data-driven, practical and cost-effective while promoting public safety and fostering a culture of respect for all."

Some key elements of Phelan's vision include:

Before Incarceration - Advocating for bail reform, partnering with community groups, schools and local governments to support crime prevention programs (including programs for at-risk youth), offering pre-trial inmates substance use disorder and mental health treatment programs through outside providers, that incentivize successful participation through the possibility of earning a bail review hearing to petition for pre-trial release.

During Incarceration - Implementing a comprehensive infectious disease screening program to identify COVID-19 and other infections before assigning inmate housing, convening a task force of medical and public health experts to review facilities and procedures to identify and correct potential opportunities for disease transmission in the jail, review and improve intake procedures and improve training for intake and classification staff so that inmate medical and health information is obtained in a timely fashion, creating an environment that ensures the safety, health and well-being of correctional officers and offers opportunities for top-notch, continuing training and education, ending the unequal treatment of women inmates, addressing the different needs of young adult inmates aged 18 to 25, partnering with trade unions to create an apprenticeship feeder program in which the union provides skills training to inmates during incarceration and places those who complete training in apprenticeships immediately upon their release.

After Incarceration - Supporting successful re-entry into the community by creating an aftercare plan for every inmate that includes housing, employment counseling, access to education, medical care, substance use disorder treatment, mental health treatment and programs to help newly released people comply with court and probation requirements, investing in step-down programs that prepare those who are completing their sentence outside of jail to re-enter the community, and asking local businesses to commit to providing recovery-friendly workplaces for released inmates.

Sheriff Jerry McDermott Qualifies For September Primary Ballot

Sheriff Jerry McDermott announces he has obtained enough certified signatures from town/city clerks to qualify for the September Republican primary ballot.

Sheriff McDermott along with his campaign staff and dozens of local volunteers, worked tirelessly to gather over four times the required amount of signatures needed to qualify for the ballot.

"Our campaign, through this effort, has shown that nothing, not even COVID-19 will stop us from making sure the good work happening here at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office continues," Jerry McDermott said.

"We suspended our in-person signature gathering effort in early March when it became clear it was going to endanger others," Jerry McDermott said. "I can't express enough how thankful I am to the dozens of volunteers across Norfolk County that immediately rallied around our creative campaign efforts."

Sheriff McDermott mentioned that his campaign utilized social media and his vast email network in order to gather signatures electronically as well as run socially distant signature drive-thru locations.

"We found a few supporters that put their own socially distance drive-thru location up before we even asked them," Jerry McDermott said. "Socially distant drive-thru locations work by having a volunteer place a table at the end of their driveway that contains the nomination papers that folks can drive by one by one and sign. Tables are given wipes and sanitizer for signers to use, and they are encouraged to BYOP (bring your own pen)."

While the legislature failed to act on the issue, the Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled on April 17th that: the number of required signatures be cut in half; to allow electronic signatures; and a week extension on the deadline for submittal after a suit was brought by a bipartisan group of candidates running for offices across the state.

Sheriff McDermott stated that he is "thankful to the plaintiffs for taking on the suit in order to preserve the integrity of our electoral process in a manner that also ensures the safety of our residents in this unprecedented time." He continued, "I approach my work at the Norfolk County Sheriff Office the same way the plaintiffs approached their suit - doing and fighting for what is right for the people of Massachusetts, not for partisan politics."

When asked further on that issue of politics, Sheriff McDermott said that his main focus as Norfolk County's top law enforcement official is "to keep the residents Norfolk County safe."

Sheriff McDermott, who was seen as a consensus builder, was tapped by Governor Charlie Baker to take over after the departure of former Sheriff Michael Bellotti.

"Jerry McDermott has the leadership skills, experience and knowledge to serve as Norfolk County sheriff," Baker said in a statement. "With over three decades of service to communities across the commonwealth, Jerry has focused on building partnerships with local and state agencies as a Boston city councillor. ... I am confident that he will serve the people of Norfolk County with integrity."
